PROJECTS

Movie App – https://daveryde-movieapp.herokuapp.com

MovieApp was developed to give guests and registered users of themoviedb.org a unique and simplistic view of the vast information of movies trailers, actors/actresses, and tv shows. The overall design styles features a comprehensive and intuitive design approach like most movie showcase type of designs such as Netflix and Hulu. Behind the technology powering this application on the client side is react with redux state management and styled using custom SASS. The server side custom REST api was built using node.js and paired to the TMDb API

Roster App - https://arcane-retreat-70868.herokuapp.com

RosterApp was developed for users to quickly and easily create a print friendly formatted photo roster using only a unique id number from an external image data base. The design features a "sketchy" design wrapped the elements give a teacher & student theme. Users are provided a register and login system where they can create and save individual rosters. Profiles can be customized, and other users can view other rosters. This implementation uses web technologies such as nodeJS and Express on the server side tied with MongoDB and connected to Mongo Atlas for database storage, and Handlebars frontend template engine powering the client side.
